If the stars were made to worship so will I
If the mountains bow in reverence so will I
If the oceans roar Your greatness so will I
For if everything exists to lift You high so will I
If the wind goes where You send it so will I
If the rocks cry out in silence so will I
If the sum of all our praises still falls shy
Then we'll sing again a hundred billion times
- So Will I (100 Billion X), Hillsong United

A few years ago I was visiting a couple of friends in Switzerland. We spent a night in the beautiful town of Zermatt. It was summer and the weather was so incredible we all elected to abandon the room we were staying in and sleep on the balcony, under the stars. I woke up with the first light of dawn and took this photo. As I sat there on that balcony in the quiet, looking at this view, I couldn't help but feel God's presence and be utterly in awe of His creation.

"I tell you," he replied, "if they keep quiet, the stones will cry out."
Luke 19:40

In my head, the silence of that peaceful morning was shattered by the sound of creation roaring praise to God. Everything spoke of His wonder and power, His love and His care. If even the very earth was screaming Your name, how much more then should I be willing to proclaim that same name? "For if everything exists to lift You high so will I." I prayed and thanked Him for creating such beauty, but more so, for giving us the ability to recognise and appreciate it. A view unmarred by the sins of man, seemingly eternal. Yet even as I looked upon it, the mountain was slowly crumbling, and long after it fades He will still be here. For unlike the mountain's long life on earth, His reign, His love, His grace and His mercy are truly eternal. Thank you, Lord.
