"When we all get to heaven"

By David Craig

I am about to leave for Glasgow, dressed in shorts and a tee shirt. Anyone seeing me will think I am daft, as it is overcast and raining. However, I know where I am going and it is forecast to be sunny and warm there when I arrive.

As Christians we know where we are going and we know it will be far better than our current lives when we arrive. Have a listen to the song "When we all get to heaven" by Matt Redman as the song looks ahead to our brighter future:

Sometimes I think we can be too attached to our temporary home and we make plans without the ending clause "Deo Volente." In James 4:13-15 we are warned not to make plans without the Lord and to remember that our current lives on the earth are short, "...like a mist that appears for a little while and then vanishes."

Jesus said, "...you also must be ready because the Son of Man will come at an hour when you do not expect Him." (Matthew 24:44) and in verse 13 of the next chapter He said, "Therefore, keep watch because you do not know the day or the hour." speaking about His return for His bride- the church.

Let's keep praying for our non-Christian friends and neighbours that they will be saved and have the assurance of going to heaven, and so they, like us, can "eagerly await a Saviour from there, the Lord Jesus Christ." (Philippians 3:20)

I enjoy watching the Danny MacAskill video "Way Back Home" which has more than 42 million views:

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Cj6ho1-G6tw> As Danny anticipated the arrival at his hometown on the island of Skye, let us live on the light of reaching our heavenly home while praying for and helping as many as possible to be there with us.
